

ROVOLTO

Lead Generation for the Physical Security Industry

We find the moment a project breaks ground, a company expands, or a property changes hands — and put your security company in front of the right decision-maker while it still matters.

Built specifically for security companies

Not a generic lead-gen shop — a team that understands how security deals actually get won.

Rovolto was started with one observation: physical security companies win new contracts the same way, over and over — by being the first credible vendor in front of a property manager, developer, or general contractor the moment a project or portfolio changes. New construction breaking ground. A new asset acquired. A leadership change. A grand opening announced.

Most outreach misses that moment entirely — generic templates sent to generic lists, months too late or too early. Rovolto is built around catching that moment, reaching the right person with a message that references their actual project, and managing the relationship until it's ready to close.

Targeted, not templated

Every message references a real, current event tied to the prospect — not a mail-merge.

Full-funnel, not just leads

We manage outreach, replies, and follow-up — you only step in once a lead is qualified.

Built for security, specifically

Our research process is tuned to the events that actually create security budget: construction, acquisitions, openings.

Three services, one connected pipeline

Each function feeds the next — from finding the right prospect to handing you a warm conversation.

01

Lead Generation

We monitor construction starts, property acquisitions, leadership changes, and openings across your target markets, and build a live list of prospects who have a real, current reason to need security services.

02

Data Extraction

For every trigger event, we identify and verify the actual decision-maker — VP of Construction, Regional Property Manager, Project Executive — along with a working email address, not a generic info@ inbox.

03

Inbox Management

We send the outreach, handle every reply, qualify interest, and keep long-shot prospects warm with scheduled follow-ups — so your team only spends time on conversations that are ready to move.

A four-step process, start to handoff

The same connected workflow behind every campaign we run.

1

Signal Detection

We track permits, groundbreakings, acquisitions, leadership moves, and openings across your target markets and regions.

2

Personalized Outreach

Short, plain-language emails that reference the specific project or news — sent from a dedicated outreach identity, never a mass blast.

3

Response Handling

Every reply is read, triaged, and categorized — hot opportunity, future follow-up, referral, or not needed — with follow-ups scheduled automatically.

4

Handoff & Reporting

Qualified conversations are handed to your team with full context, plus a regular report on volume, outcomes, and pipeline health.

A five-month campaign, in numbers

A representative snapshot from an active Rovolto campaign for a regional security services client. Client identity withheld.

Monthly response volume

How responses broke down

Industries we reach on your behalf

Our research process is built to move across verticals, not stay locked to one niche.

Multifamily & Residential Development

Ground-up apartment communities and modular housing projects.

Affordable Housing

Nonprofit and mission-driven developers opening resident-service communities.

Commercial & Industrial Construction

Distribution centers, staging yards, and large-scale ground-up builds.

Retail & Hospitality

New restaurant, cafe, and bar openings needing patio and after-hours coverage.

Real Estate Brokerage & Investment

Brokerages and asset managers listing or acquiring properties.

Entertainment & Cultural Venues

Experiential parks and museum-style attractions preparing to launch.

What makes our outreach different

We write like people, not templates

Short, plain-language emails with a personalized opener, a one-line pitch, and a soft call to action — never an obvious mass send.

We track outcomes, not just sends

Every reply is categorized so you always know what's hot, what's warming up, and what's been referred to the right contact.

We keep the pipeline alive

"Not right now" isn't a dead end — we log the right follow-up window and come back on schedule, so no opportunity gets dropped.

We report in plain numbers

Monthly reporting shows response volume, outcome breakdown, and industry reach — the same format used in this portfolio.

Let's fill your pipeline.

Tell us your target markets and the projects you want in front of, and we'll build the outreach campaign around them.

ROVOLTO INC.

www.rovolto.com · ahmad@rovolto.net

CONFIDENTIAL — client identities referenced in this portfolio are withheld.