All client names, locations, and identifying details have been withheld or generalised to protect confidentiality. Figures shown reflect actual contracted rates and scopes.

We don't hand you a list. We hand you a conversation already in motion.

Every lead in this report started the same way — a property manager, developer, or operations contact responding directly to outreach we ran on behalf of our security company partners. No cold lists. No cold transfers. By the time a lead reaches our partner's inbox, the prospect has already engaged, asked a question, or requested a proposal.

01

We identify the opportunity

Properties, developments, and organisations actively in need of security coverage — sourced before the RFP stage where possible.

02

We start the conversation

Outreach is run under our partner's brand. The decision-maker is already responsive by the time it's handed over.

03

Your team closes it

Pricing, site walks, and contract terms stay entirely in your hands. We stay out of the way once the door is open.

A note on confidentiality

The properties, companies, and individuals behind every lead in this report are real. To protect ongoing client relationships, we've withheld names and identifying details and generalised each opportunity by sector and region. Screenshots have been selected and cropped to show genuine engagement without exposing confidential information.

Hi,

Thank you for reaching back out.

I do have a property that we have overnight and weekend patrols for. The weekend patrol is 24 hours through Monday.

Is this a service your team provides?

We're also considering changing the patrol to a Monday–Friday vehicle patrol only, and a Saturday–Sunday onsite patrol.

I'm happy to chat with you further about the property needs and look at proposals for our upcoming budget.

Thank you,

Regional portfolio manager confirmed an active patrol need and proactively invited proposals for the upcoming budget cycle — a high-intent, budget-confirmed opportunity.
